11.1 The programme was established following the final review and appraisal of the United Nations New Agenda for the Development of Africa in the 1990s in 2002. As a result of that review, the General Assembly, by its resolution 57/7, brought to a close the New Agenda and endorsed the New Partnership for Africa's Development (NEPAD) as the framework for the provision of international support for African development (NEPAD was formally adopted by the Assembly of Heads of State and Government of the Organization of African Unity at its 37th ordinary session, held in Lusaka in July 2001.). The General Assembly also outlined the substantive areas to receive support and the modalities for providing such support, underscoring the need for a structure in the Secretariat in New York to review and report on the support provided by the United Nations system and the international community for the New Partnership and on the coordinated implementation of outcomes of summit meetings and conferences as they relate to Africa, as well as to coordinate global advocacy in support of the New Partnership. In addition, the Assembly welcomed the actions being taken at the regional level by the Economic Commission for Africa (ECA) to organize the activities of the United Nations system around thematic clusters covering the priority areas of the New Partnership and, in that regard, urged the strengthening of the process as a means of enhancing the effective response of the United Nations system in support of the New Partnership. It called upon the United Nations system to enhance its advocacy role and public information activities in support of Africa's development. Subsequently, in its resolution 57/300, the Assembly endorsed the creation of the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa and entrusted to that Office the role of coordinating reports and advocacy in support of NEPAD. The role of the Office in supporting NEPAD has been reaffirmed by the General Assembly in a series of subsequent resolutions.

11.2 At the 2005 World Summit (see General Assembly resolution 60/1), world leaders reaffirmed their commitment to addressing the special needs of Africa, the only continent not on track to meet any of the goals of the United Nations Millennium Declaration (resolution 55/2) by 2015. The New Partnership includes a commitment to achieving the Millennium Development Goals, which represents an important linkage with the Millennium Declaration. NEPAD thus substantially reflects the priorities in terms of meeting the special needs of Africa as set out in the Declaration, namely, supporting the political and institutional structures of emerging democracies in Africa; further building peacekeeping capacity, in cooperation with regional organizations; taking special measures to address the challenges of poverty reduction and sustainable development by cancelling debt, increasing official development assistance, enhancing private capital flows and building capacity for trade; and helping Africa to build its capacity to tackle the spread of HIV/AIDS and other infectious diseases. Consequently, through its support for NEPAD, the programme will contribute substantively to the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals in Africa.

11.3 A major barrier to the development of Africa has been the persistence of conflict in certain countries of the region. The need to develop a comprehensive means of promoting peace and security and development has long been recognized and was articulated in the report of the Secretary-General on the causes of conflict and the promotion of durable peace and sustainable development in Africa (A/52/871-S/1998/318). Since the issuance of that report in 1998, a number of United Nations initiatives in Africa have been in line with the recommendations of the report, although a great deal still needs to be done. Thus, by its resolution 60/223, the Assembly called on the Secretary-General to continue to monitor progress in the implementation of the recommendations.

11.4 In accordance with the mandate provided in the resolutions of the General Assembly, the programme aims to: (a) mobilize support and galvanize the efforts of the international community for peace and development in Africa; (b) ensure that the development of Africa remains one of the main priorities of the international community; (c) promote a supportive international framework for African development efforts; (d) encourage a coordinated and effective response by the United Nations system at the policy and operational levels in support of African development; and (e) strengthen and enhance South-South cooperation in support of the advancement of Africa.

11.5 Regional and international efforts have focused on the implementation of NEPAD and on assisting Africa in developing a robust peace and security architecture. This programme will support those efforts through a mix of analytical work, advocacy and outreach, and by enhancing coordination of the work of the United Nations system in support of Africa's development.

11.6 The Office of the Special Adviser on Africa has been realigned with the Office of the High Representative for the Least Developed Countries, Landlocked Developing Countries and Small Island Developing States. The realignment will help reinforce advocacy efforts and promote greater inter-agency coordination and donor contact to mobilize support for programmes dedicated to the development of Africa and to the least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. The Office of the Special Adviser on Africa will maintain its mandate and programme budget, as well as provide overall coordination for and leadership of programme 9 of the strategic framework for the period 2010-2011, which will be under the joint responsibility of the Office of the Special Adviser on Africa, ECA and the Department of Public Information of the Secretariat.

11.7 The issue of publications as a part of the programme of work has been reviewed in the context of each subprogramme. It is anticipated that recurrent and non-recurrent publications will be issued as summarized in table 11.3 and as described in the output information for each subprogramme. The slight decrease over the past two bienniums reflects a consolidation and reformulation in an effort to further increase the comprehensiveness, quality and relevance of publications.

11.8 The overall resources required for the biennium 2010-2011 under this section amount to $13,113,300 before recosting, reflecting an increase of $905,200 (or 7.4 per cent). The growth shown in tables 11.5 and 11.6 can be summarized as follows:

(a) A net increase of $728,400 under subprogramme 1 as a result of: (i) an increase of $723,800 as a consequence of the delayed impact of three new Professional posts (1 P-4 and 2 P-3) approved for the biennium 2008-2009; and (ii) an increase in the amount of $11,800 reflecting the cost of the service-level agreement with the Office of Information and Communications Technology, partially offset by a reduced amount of $4,800 for the maintenance of office furniture and equipment and an amount totalling $7,200 for non-recurrent non-post items;

(b) A net increase of $176,800 under subprogramme 2 as a result of (i) an increase of $165,600 as a consequence of the delayed impact of an additional P-4 post approved for the biennium 2008-2009; and (ii) an increase of $37,100 under travel of staff, partially offset by a decrease of $25,900 under consultants and experts.

11.9 During the biennium 2010-2011, the projected extrabudgetary resources, amounting to $375,000, will complement resources from the regular budget to finance various activities, such as the preparation of policy and issue papers on disarmament, demobilization and reintegration and stability in Africa, travel of representatives to attend conferences and meetings, and conference costs.

11.10 The low rate of implementation of extrabudgetary activities in 2008-2009 is due to the limited level of extrabudgetary fund mobilization. The activities planned for 2008-2009 are only partially dependent on extrabudgetary funds, thus enabling the completion of most of the planned activities. The impact of the low utilization of extrabudgetary funds on programme delivery will therefore be minimal.

11.11 The only major extrabudgetary activity planned for 2010-2011 is the Third International Conference on Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration and Stability in Africa. Efforts to mobilize extrabudgetary funds for this activity have increased, and there appears to be substantial interest from the international community in this very important topic which is yet to be converted into tangible commitments from donors.

11.12 Pursuant to General Assembly resolution 58/269, resources identified for the conduct of monitoring and evaluation would amount to $81,700, representing a total of 2.5 work-months of Professional staff at the P-5/P-4 level and 6 work-months of staff at the General Service (Other level), funded from regular budget resources and reflected under each subprogramme.

11.13 The estimated percentage distribution of the programme resources in the biennium 2010-2011 is shown in table 11.4.

11.14 The distribution of resources is summarized in tables 11.5 and 11.6.

11.18 The amount of $8,782,700, reflecting an increase of $728,400, is required for the continuation of 23 posts and related non-post resources. The increase of $723,800 under posts is a result of the delayed impact of three new Professional posts (1 P-4 and 2 P-3) approved for the biennium 2008-2009. The net increase in non-post requirements is largely attributable to the increased cost of the service-level agreement with the Office of Information and Communications Technology, partially offset by a reduced amount of $4,800 for the maintenance of office furniture and equipment and an amount totalling $7,200 for non-recurrent non-post items.

11.19 During the biennium 2010-2011, the projected extrabudgetary resources, amounting to $375,000, will complement resources from the regular budget to finance various activities such as the preparation of policy and issue papers on disarmament, demobilization and reintegration and stability in Africa, travel of representatives to attend conferences and meetings, and conference costs.

The Office is mindful of the current global economic situation and its possible impact on the availability of such resources but will continue to work with donors to pursue collaboration in areas of mutual interest.
